

Complete Business Acquisition Support

Example of the format and decisions a client may receive; fictional illustration, no client matter or facts verified.

BUYER DECISION

You need independent research coordination across a multi-stage acquisition decision.

What this service would examine

One transaction and three agreed research stages. The exact claims and sources require human approval and a written scope.

What you receive

A staged evidence register, issues log and consolidated handoff to the human decision-makers.

Example classification framework

SUPPORTED: Relevant reliable source evidence substantiates the defined claim, within stated limits.

PARTIAL: Some elements have evidence, but material components remain unresolved.

CONTRADICTED: An identified source conflicts with the claim and the discrepancy is described.

UNVERIFIED: Insufficient appropriate evidence; this is not proof that a claim is false.

Illustration only. No real seller, buyer or source is represented.

Illustrative findings

Fictional example. Every source reference below is a description of the record needed, not an actual accessed record.

01. Stage 1: targeted intake

Example material: Define material claims, source owners and access permissions

Illustrative assessment: Gate: accepted written scope

02. Stage 2: evidence work

Example material: Record checks, contradictions and missing records

Illustrative assessment: Gate: quality-controlled interim findings

03. Stage 3: decision handoff

Example material: Deliver unresolved issues with ownership and next action

Illustrative assessment: Gate: documented final acceptance

EXAMPLE NEXT DECISION

Do not proceed to the next workstream without a documented client authorisation.

What an actual Aperture record would additionally contain

- Evidence identifier, lawful source and date retrieved
- Scope-specific assessment with contrary evidence and limitations
- An unresolved-questions register with decision-relevant priorities
- Human review and document control before delivery

Commissioning & safeguards

Read this before sharing any business records or relying on a demonstration.

What is and is not being sold

A staged evidence register, issues log and consolidated handoff to the human decision-makers.

The indicated fee is a proposal, not an accepted quote. A defined written scope, compliance review, fee approval and capacity confirmation are required before any engagement.

These are examples of an evidence record structure. No source testing, factual due diligence or actual business investigation is claimed in this sample.

Aperture does not provide brokerage, valuations, CPA audits, lending, legal advice, tax advice or guaranteed transaction outcomes.

A lack of records or online matches cannot be treated as proof that no risk exists. Licensed advisers and confidential data channels may be required.

Proposed service details

Fee shown: $4,950 USD (subject to written approval). Indicative delivery target: 20 business days, after the required engagement conditions are satisfied.

Start by sending a written request

Visit apertureforensic.com/business-acquisition/enquire/ or email info@apertureforensic.com. Do not send confidential business files before an approved secure channel is agreed.